Stories of Old Oregon (Classic Reprint) George Andrew Waggoner

Oregon's Pioneers. How shall a tale of the West be told? Who will write it in letters of gold? Where is the one whose magic pen Shall make its heroes live again? Heroes who made a desert sod, Touched as if by Aarons rod, Blossom o'er its wide domain With flowers, fruit, and golden grain. Patriots who watch and ward did keep While all the nation was asleep; Till every hill and every vale Held touching, tragic, thrilling tale; And western soil, from flood to flood, Was enriched with patriot blood. Where their campfire smoke has curled, There our banner was unfurled; While their cabins rose in air, they were building house more fair. From Missouri stawny flood, Where the painted savage stood, To Pacific's golden gate, They were building house of state. True of hand and heart and eye, They were building to the sky. Well they builded; neath their domes State and empires hfeir
